As a young female working in a male dominant industry, I feel blessed to be a part of the International Women's Day 2021 editorial and to share my successes on such a big platform.

I have been selling houses since just 19 years of age. I absolutely love my job, every day I help people through exciting times and that feeling never gets old. I believe as a woman I am able to add a personal and empathetic touch to the process of buying and selling.

International Women's Day is extremely important to me although in saying that it is important to celebrate the success of women every day!

Gizzelle Powell - RE/MAX Lifestyle Marketing

International Women's Day is a day of solidarity for us all to celebrate the social, political, cultural and economic achievements of women. For me, this day acts as an opportunity to thank my family especially my husband for being supportive so I can do the job I love and be very good at it. Real estate is normally dominated by male but with hard work, female agents nowadays are given the same opportunity to succeed.

I have just recently come back from Queensland to accept two(2) major awards: RE/MAX International Hall of Fame Award and Chairman Award. Also, received six(6) Major Awards from Ratemyagent Agent of the Year Awards 2021 including Top 100 Agent in Australia.

I am grateful that through this job I can make a difference and help someone achieve their property goals. The joy of my clients when they have successfully bought or sold a property, this drives my passion even further.

Bianca Rossetto - Raine & Horne Penrith

Really, you could say that I have been in Real Estate my whole life. I grew up in the Penrith area and started working for dad's business when I was only 14.

Real Estate has changed a lot since I first started. There's a lot more women in the industry now, I work in an office completely made up on women, except for dad of course!

I love my job and couldn't imagine doing anything else. I think it's an advantage to be a woman in real estate. Women generally have a lot more empathy and that only helps me in dealing with people who are generally dealing with the biggest asset they will ever buy or sell.

Happy International Women's Day!

Helen Fitzpatrick - Ray White Nepean Group

I have been working in real estate for 35 years now, celebrating 25 of those years at Ray White Penrith.

I started my career as a Property Manager and now as a Senior Sales Consultant I believe I have the advantage of understanding the needs of both sides of real estate - Sales and Property Management.

I am very dedicated and enthusiastic as I love my job. I understand what "good service" means. I know it doesn't cost any more - it just takes a little more thought and attention to detail.

I have many happy customers and can provide you with testimonials to prove it.

Lori Howell - Raine & Horne Penrith

As a proud Licensed Class 1 Real Estate Agent and Stock & Station Agent, I thoroughly encourage other women to join the real estate industry. As International Women's Day in Australia started back in 1928 we have come a long way and continued to grow. It is a day to celebrate women's achievements and continue to encourage women to grow, strive for equality, inspire, motivate and continue to develop. For myself, I am proud of what I have achieved in my Real Estate career and continue to strive for betterment and continual growth. I love what I do in the real estate industry, meeting people, helping make dreams come true. On a personal note I have also achieved a lot being born and bred in the horse industry, I breed and show horses, am a horse judge on many different societies and the greatest achievement was judging at the Sydney Royal Easter Show. I have been competing at the Royal Estate Show for over 30 years having won many supreme championships with my home bred horses. Women have achieved a lot and will continue to do so.

Catherine Evans - Ray White Nepean Group

I was raised by the strongest, smartest most inspirational business woman I know. Being a single mother it was important for her to build a life and design a career that provided success, prosperity and work life balance. It was seeing these values that inspired me to strive for my own success in my career. Women have risen above social norms over the years to become powerful & formidable forces in most professional industries. Real Estate for me was the perfect balance of my nurturing nature, helping guide my clients in selling and purchasing homes to welcome the next stage of their journey. I didn't know this was for me until I met myself along the way by giving it a try. I've seen my strength rise with each challenge I embark on.

I feel fortunate to be growing and developing my career in a time where humanity is becoming the focus not gender. We own our power, our possibilities and our promising futures! To all the beautiful women making life happen, never stop growing! You may be in the early stages forming your footprint in the world but be brave! You can achieve anything you set your mind to! Happy International Women's day!
